Art. 4

III. Validation of attachments

Where this Act does not provide for any other forum in Switzerland, the action to validate an attachment may be brought at the Swiss forum of the attachment.

Art. 5

IV. Choice of forum

¹ In matters involving an economic interest, the parties may agree on the court that will have to decide any existing or future dispute arising from a specific legal relationship. The agreement may be done in writing, or by any other means allowing it to be evidenced by text.⁵ Unless otherwise agreed, the choice of forum is exclusive.

^{1bis} If the parties have merely agreed that the place of jurisdiction is in Switzerland, the jurisdiction of the Swiss courts shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of this Act. If there is no such provision, the court first seised shall have jurisdiction.⁶

Art. 21²⁴

II. Seat and establishment of companies and trusts

¹ For companies and trusts pursuant to Article 149a, the seat is deemed to be the domicile.

² If a person has more than one citizenship, the citizenship of the state with which such person is most closely connected is exclusively relevant in determining the applicable law, unless this Act provides otherwise.

³ If recognition of a foreign decision in Switzerland depends on a person's citizenship, it is sufficient to take into consideration one of such person's citizenships.

Art. 24

V. Stateless persons and refugees

¹ A person is considered to be stateless when they are recognised as such pursuant to the New York Convention of 28 September 1954²⁵ Relating to the Status of Stateless Persons, or when such person's relationship to their national state is severed to such an extent that their situation is equivalent to that of a stateless person.

- b. by a statement certifying that no ordinary appeal can be lodged against the decision or that it is final; and
- c. in case of a default judgment, by an official document establishing that the defaulting party was given proper notice and had the opportunity to present its defence.

² This rule does not apply to legal transactions pertaining to family law, succession law or rights in rem in immovable property.

Art. 37

¹ A choice of law must be agreed in writing or result with certainty from the provisions of a marital agreement; in all other respects, it is governed by the chosen law.

² A choice of law may be made or amended at any time. A choice of law made after the celebration of marriage has retroactive effect as of the celebration date, unless the parties agree otherwise.

³ The chosen law remains applicable as long as the spouses have not amended or revoked their choice.

Art. 54

2. Absence of a choice of law
a. In general

¹ In the absence of a choice of law, marital property relations are governed:

- b. by the law of the state in which both spouses were last domiciled at the same time.

² If the spouses have never been domiciled at the same time in the same state, the law of their common citizenship applies.

Art. 55

b. Adaptation and retroactivity in case of change of domicile

¹ If the spouses transfer their domicile from one state to another, the law of the new domicile applies with retroactive effect as from the date of the celebration of marriage. Spouses may exclude retroactivity by written agreement.

Art. 56

3. Form of marital agreements

A marital agreement is valid as to form if it satisfies the requirements of the law applicable to the agreement or the requirements of the law of the place where the agreement was concluded.

Art. 57

4. Legal relationships with third parties

¹ The effects of the marital property regime on a legal relationship between a spouse and a third party are governed by the law of the state in which that spouse was domiciled at the time when the legal relationship arose.

² However, these effects are governed by the law applicable to the marital property regime if the third party knew or should have known that law at the time when the legal relationship arose.

The Swiss courts at the child's habitual residence or at either parent's domicile have jurisdiction to hear an action to declare or contest a parent-child relationship.

Art. 67

2. Jurisdiction at the place of origin

If the parents are not domiciled in Switzerland and the child does not have his or her habitual residence there, the courts at the Swiss place of origin of either parent have jurisdiction to hear an action to declare or contest a parent-child relationship, provided the action cannot or cannot reasonably be expected to be brought at either parent's domicile nor at the child's habitual residence.

Art. 68

II. Applicable
law
1. In general

¹ The formation, declaration and contesting of a parent-child relationship are governed by the law of the state of the child's habitual residence.

² However, if neither parent is domiciled in the state of the child's habitual residence and if the parents and the child are citizens of the same state, the law of that state applies.

Art. 69

2. Relevant time

¹ For the determination of the law applicable to the formation, declaration or contesting of a parent-child relationship, the date of birth is decisive.

² However, in case of a judicial declaration or contesting of a parent-child relationship, the date of the action is decisive if a preponderant interest of the child so requires.

Art. 70

III. Foreign decisions

Foreign decisions relating to the declaration or contesting of a parent-child relationship are recognised in Switzerland if they were rendered in the state of the child's habitual residence or in the child's state of citizenship, or in the state of domicile or the state of citizenship of the mother or the father.

Section 2 Acknowledgment

Art. 71

I. Jurisdiction

¹ The Swiss authorities at the child's place of birth or habitual residence, as well as those of the domicile or the place of origin of the mother or the father, have jurisdiction to receive the acknowledgment of a child.

² When an acknowledgment takes place in judicial proceedings in which the parent-child relationship is legally relevant, the judge seized with the lawsuit may also receive the acknowledgment.

³ The courts that have jurisdiction to hear an action to declare or contest a parent-child relationship (Art. 66 and 67) also have jurisdiction to rule on a challenge of an acknowledgment.

Art. 72

II. Applicable law

¹ An acknowledgment in Switzerland may be made in accordance with the law of the state of the child's habitual residence, the law of the child's state of citizenship, or the law of the domicile or of the state of citizenship of the mother or the father. The date of the acknowledgment is decisive.

² The form of an acknowledgment in Switzerland is governed by Swiss law.

³ The challenge of an acknowledgment is governed by Swiss law.

Art. 73

III. Acknowledgment made or challenged abroad

¹ The acknowledgment made abroad is recognised in Switzerland, if it is valid in the state of the child's habitual residence, in the child's state of citizenship, or in the state of domicile or the state of citizenship of the mother or the father.

² Foreign decisions on the challenge of an acknowledgment are recognised in Switzerland if they were rendered in one of the states mentioned in paragraph 1.

Art. 76

2. Jurisdiction at the place of origin

The Swiss judicial or administrative authorities at the place of origin have jurisdiction to pronounce an adoption, if the adopting person or adopting spouses are not domiciled in Switzerland and at least one of them is a Swiss citizen and if they cannot or cannot reasonably be expected to adopt at the place of their foreign domicile.

Art. 77

II. Applicable law

¹ The requirements for an adoption in Switzerland are governed by Swiss law.

² Where it appears that an adoption would not be recognised in the state of domicile or the state of citizenship of the adopting person or adopting spouses and that serious prejudice would result for the child, the authority shall also take account of the requirements under the law of the respective state. If, even then, recognition does not appear to be assured, the adoption shall not be pronounced.

³ An action to challenge an adoption pronounced in Switzerland is governed by Swiss law. An adoption pronounced abroad may be challenged in Switzerland only if a ground for challenge also exists under Swiss law.

Art. 78

III. Adoptions and similar institutions of foreign law

¹ Adoptions pronounced abroad are recognised in Switzerland if they were pronounced in the state of domicile or the state of citizenship of the adopting person or adopting spouses.

² Adoptions and similar acts pronounced abroad that have effects substantially different from a parent-child relationship under Swiss law are recognised in Switzerland only with the effects that are attached to them in the state where they were pronounced.

Section 4 Effects of the Parent-Child Relationship

Art. 79

I. Jurisdiction
1. In general

¹ Swiss courts at the child's habitual residence or those of the domicile or, in the absence of a domicile, of the habitual residence of the respondent parent have jurisdiction to hear an action relating to the relations between parents and child, including an action relating to child support.

³ Moreover, the Swiss judicial or administrative authorities have jurisdiction if this is necessary for the protection of a person or of their property.

⁴ Measures taken in a State which is not party to the Conventions referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 are recognised if they were taken or are recognised in the State of habitual residence of the child or the adult.

⁴ The state court shall at the request of a party take the measures required to constitute the arbitral tribunal in the event that the parties or members of the arbitral tribunal do not fulfil their obligations within 30 days of being requested to do so.
