- c. it is based solely on an increase in transportation costs, including the cost of fuel, on an increase in dues chargeable for certain services, such as landing taxes or embarkation or disembarkation fees at ports and airports, or on modifications to the exchange rates applied to the particular package.

Section 6 Significant Changes to the Contract

Art. 8 Definition

¹ Any significant change of an essential contract term by the organiser before the start of the journey is considered an essential change to the contract itself.

² A price increase exceeding ten percent is considered an essential change to the contract.

Art. 9 Obligation to inform

The organiser shall notify the consumer as quickly as possible of any essential change to the contract as well as its effects on the total package price.

Art. 10 Consumer rights

¹ The consumer may accept an essential change to the contract or withdraw from the contract without penalty.

² He must give notice of his withdrawal from the contract to the organiser or the retailer as soon as possible.

⁴ A claim for damages due to non-performance of the contract remains reserved.

Section 7 Cancellation of the Package

Art. 11

² The consumer is not, however, entitled to claim for damages for non-performance of the contract:

- a. if the cancellation is on the grounds that the number of persons enrolled for the package is less than the minimum number required and the consumer is informed of the cancellation, in writing, within the period indicated in the contract; or
- b. if the cancellation is due to force majeure. Overbooking is not considered a case of force majeure.

Section 8

Non-Performance and Improper Performance of the Contract

Art. 12 Complaints

¹ The consumer must communicate any failure in the performance of the contract which he or she perceives on the spot to the supplier of the services concerned and to the organiser or the retailer in writing or any other appropriate form at the earliest opportunity.

² In cases of complaint, the organiser, the retailer or his local representative must make prompt efforts to find appropriate solutions.

Art. 13 Alternative arrangements

¹ Where, after departure, a significant proportion of the services contracted for is not provided or the organiser perceives that it will be unable to procure a significant proportion of the services to be provided, the organiser shall:

- a. make suitable alternative arrangements for the continuation of the package;
- b. compensate the consumer for the loss suffered; the quantum of damages corresponds to the difference between the services offered and those supplied.

² If it is impossible to make such arrangements or these are not accepted by the consumer for good reasons, the organiser must provide the consumer with equivalent transport back to the place of departure, or to another return-point to which the consumer has agreed.⁶ In addition, the organiser must compensate the consumer for the loss suffered therefrom.

³ The measures under this Article do not justify any extra charge to the consumer.

² The organiser and the retailer have a right of recourse against other suppliers of services.

³ In the matter of damages arising from the non-performance or improper performance of the contract, the limits of compensation provided for in international conventions remain reserved.

- a. failures attributable to the consumer;
- b. unforeseeable or unavoidable failures attributable to a third party unconnected with the provision of the services contracted for;
